Seasonal Spore Survival Bulletin

» Recognizing Spore-fall

Spore-fall is occurring with increased regularity. The fungal blooms to the west decay every summer, releasing clouds of large tan spores which are picked up by the winds and may be deposited within the city. In recent years, we've received as high as 36 inches of spores.

» Surviving Spore-fall

Do not ignore the warning signs of spore-fall. If you witness spores in the air, follow the protocol:

- Return indoors immediately.
- Contact the nearest authority (commune leader, stability officer, or other government employee).
- Ration food pastes. Food delivery systems may be impacted for some time.
- Do not leave your commune until the all-clear siren signals it is safe.

» Essential Workers

If you are deemed essential, you will receive an Office of Durability issued internally pressurized suit (IPS), also known as a storm suit. Care and maintenance of the suit is the responsibility of the worker. Ensure it is properly sealed before exiting shelter. If you have been issued an IPS and fail to appear for your essential duties, you will be held liable.

» Remediating Exposure

Spores are toxic and exposure to them is extremely hazardous.

If you witness someone who seems dizzy, slurs their speech, seems confused or falls unconscious, do the following for your protection:

- Do not touch them without proper protective gear.
- Do not permit them indoors without proper decontamination.
- Once inside, contact medical authorities immediately.

Two Officers Dead

Director of Stability?

[REDACTED],

we have a traitor

Situation update: We've infiltrated a small nihilist unit codenamed Cancer and hold out hope that they may lead us to a larger cell. Furthermore, according to our asset, their motive appears to be stopping the sustainability initiative. ~~They're happy to watch the world die, it seems.~~ fuck off nark

In the course of the investigation, two stability officers were killed while following a lead. The commune where the crime occurred is clearly destabilized. I'm concerned that without quick action, anti-government hostility may arise from the fallout and worsen the situation.

I recommend immediately sending psychiatrists to appraise the attitude of the commune. This is not my area of expertise, but I've seen good results with mandatory drug administration. the dusted are easy to control

All the best,

Your New Home

Refuge is the final place where humanity gathers safely here on Earth. Outside our city walls is only chaos, suffering, and death. All we request in return is your ~~continued contribution to our society.~~ freedom

Though the road is long and weary and fraught with hardship, when humans gather together as one, we can overcome anything. We shall overcome everything. Together.
